Subject: Quentin in FEAD here re: letter to neonic registrants

Hi Meredith.

I'm working from home and Remote Access continues to not allow me to use Outlook, so I'm using my personal account.

Anyway, Melanie Biscoe was curious about why the recent labeling letter to neonic registrants didn't go out to all registrants with neonic products. I seem to remember hearing that not all registered neonic Als have uses that might result in exposure to bees. Is that why the registrants of only some neonic products got the letter?

Thanks,

Quentin
